DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4). Some of the reference numbers described in the specification do not all correspond to the appropriate elements in the drawings, making the invention difficult to understand. For example, figures 5 and 6 indicate that character "140" references two different parts. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the specification recites in paragraph 11 and claims 1 and 12 that the pivot axes of the articulating module are parallel. However, as illustrated in figure 5 the pivot axes defined by pins 142 and 148 are perpendicular. Examiner fails to identify any disclosure of other points about which the first and second segments may pivot.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1 and 12-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The claims recite parallel pivot axes, which is not enabled by the present invention. See the objection to the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language

Claims 1-7 and 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,376,091 to Hotchkiss et al.

Regarding claims 1, 9, 12 and their depending claims, Hotchkiss discloses in figure 16 an external fixation device comprising a frame assembly including a first arc segment 58 and a second arc segment 38. Alternatively, the first arc segment is element 30 and the second arc segment is element 32. The segments are coupled for rotation. An articulating module includes a central member 20,22,24, a first pivot segment 28 and a second pivot segment 26.

Regarding claim 2 and its depending claims, Hotchkiss discloses in figure 16 a first arc segment 30 and a second arc segment 32 having teeth, and a drive unit 70,72,74,76 including a worm gear.

Claims 2 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by DE 38 02 743. The patent discloses in figure 1 first and second arc segments that are coupled to one another and define complete circles.

With regard the statement of intended use and other functional statements, they do not impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over the patents which are capable of being used as claimed if one so desires to do so. In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Furthermore, the law of anticipation does not require that the reference "teach" what the subject patent teaches, but rather it is only necessary that the claims under attack "read on" something in the reference. Kalman v. Kimberly Clark Corp., 218 USPQ 781 (CCPA 1983). Furthermore, the manner in which a device is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).
